Early glimpses of treasures to come

The Treasure House Fair is promoting its commitment to overseas exhibitors with a series of early highlights from European and US galleries.

Long-Sharp Gallery from Indianapolis, US, is bringing a number of drawings fresh from the estate of Andy Warhol. Focusing on flower compositions, the display is titled Andy's Secret Garden. Fellow US dealership Geoffrey Diner Gallery from Washington, DC, brings design-focused items including a bench by George Nakashima (1905-90).

From Europe comes Univers du Bronze of Paris, which offers works by Les Lalanne, while Galeries Gmurzynska of Zurich will bring Fire Painting by Yves Klein, along with various works of Surrealism, Pop Art and more.

The fair runs from June 22-26 on London's Chelsea Embankment, filling the void left by Masterpiece, which earlier this year announced it would no longer take place.
