Simon Phillips appointed chair of Treasure House Fair

London summer fair Treasure House has appointed Simon Phillips of Mayfair gallery Ronald Phillips as chairman of the fair and the advisory board.

Phillips, a specialist in English 18th century furniture, has stood at Treasure House since the fair opened in 2022.

He will advise Thomas Woodham-Smith (fair director) and Harry Van der Hoorn (owner of Treasure House and Stabulo International). According to the fair, the appointment comes as the event “enters a new and dynamic era nurturing and developing both domestic and international trade”.

Phillips has been a major player in both the previous leading summer fairs in London. Having been chairman of the Grosvenor House Antiques Fair, he then became a founder and a board member of Masterpiece (Woodham-Smith and Van der Hoorn were also founders) after the Grosvenor House event closed.
